

Friend

My life really needs a friend
And I'm sure that friend exists
Who will always listen to me
And advise me of his best
A friend who stays and listens
Even when I'm really down
And understands my failings
Without the slightest frown

This friend, I can tell you
I would treasure with my heart
And with those bonds of friendship
I won't bear to be apart
Although I really need you friend
I don't know where to find Someone who's so forgiving
So loving and so kind

I know that I will find you friend
But when and where's not sure
And I will go on searching
Until I find that open door
I'm sure that when I find you
A friend you'll always be
And be everything I needed
In this average life called me

Yet faith is something I've not known it's never been my game
But in my life it's time to find
A yearning for the same
I want that faith and trust in you
And my heart wants your care
Forgiving friend who listens
I hope you'll be right there

But finding you is something friend
I don't know how to do
Should I shout, scream, pray or swear
Please friend, just a clue perhaps I should just say that prayer
So maybe that's the way
Just now that prayer I've said to you has changed my life today

And as a friend you're with me
My faith is so complete
You are the friend I've wanted
I ask, I knock, I seek and now I have you with me friend
I could not ask for more Than a Lord that is so caring so loving and so much more
